Aloha Friend,

Governor David Ige is pleased to accept the endorsements from both the Plasterers & Cement Masons Local 630 and Ironworkers Local 625. Together, these unions represent nearly 1,850 workers across the state of Hawai'i. The unions credited Governor Ige's collaborative style of bringing all parties together and his commitment to the well-being of the labor force in Hawaii.

Peter Iriarte, of the Plasterers & Cement Masons, Local 630 said, "We appreciate that our state is experiencing the highest employment in the nation and we attribute that fact to David. With his leadership, we are confident that our fiscal foundation is solid and we will have a prosperous future."

"Major construction projects were dormant under previous administrations but it took a leader like David Ige to activate them. Governor Ige has demonstrated his commitment to the people by actions instead of promises. We are proud to endorse him for a second term,” said Joseph O’Donnell of Ironworkers Local 625.

Governor Ige knows a strong economy depends on statewide construction projects and meaningful jobs for citizens. That’s why he has worked together with organized labor, the private sector, community organizations, and the military to advance long-term projects like airport modernizations, Kapālama Container Terminal and the consolidated Rent-A-Car facility at Kahului Airport.
